

Errata

These papers are usually written in a hurry, so errors inevitably creep in. [Heck, errors are inevitable in papers written slowly, and things like books which get reviewed dozens of times before publication.] Therefore, you should return to this site from time to time and see if anything has been revised. Usually, revisions mean additions of new material but it may be as simple as correcting the pin labels in a diagram.

When you find a mistake in one of these papers, please send me a note.
